ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data processing apparatus according an aspect of this invention has a syndrome calculation unit configured to calculate the syndrome of a demodulated data sequence. The syndrome calculation unit includes a calculation unit configured to make the calculation required to realize syndrome calculation of demodulated data for each frame obtained by removing the sync code from one sync frame.